La Convivencia IV

Medieval Spain in Perspective

Thr, Apr 8, 6:30pm reception, 7pm program

Behind the Triangle of Al-Andalus. An historical discussion of how the ruling Muslims allowed the liberty of such a rich mixture of cultures to thrive. The evening will present specialists on the medieval world and co-existence of the Sephardic, Islamic and Christian communities. A reminder for greater tolerance in our modern world.

La Pastorela

TBD for a future season

We're thrilled to be hosting again this season Yjastros Flamenco Company of Albuquerque's National Institute of Flamenco with our soloists in a production that will take you on a ride from the early pueblo roots of the Mexican Pastorela to New Mexico Flamenco. The production will follow the colorful encounters of the shepherds with various devils, good over evil, and the Pastorela of New Mexico Flamenco Ingravidado, whom you'll remember.

Although we have some music played for the early Pastorelas, parish records from the 17th C speak of works brought from Spain, and how well the indigenous peoples adapted the music and dance into their telling of the Christmas story.

Moody Performance Hall, 2520 Flora St, Dallas
$75, $50, $25/$10 students

La Pastorela is postponed to a future season due to the impact of Covid-19 on the the Yjastros Flamenco company.
Refer to ONS website for information on the exciting new dance program we are developing in its place.

Saturday afternoon performance will be particularly suitable for families and our seniors.

Celebrating Juneteenth

Sat, June 12, 7pm

Juneteenth offers us a tangible theme for this season's annual June concert. Black composers of 'early' music are rare, France's Joseph Bologna, Chevalier de St Georges being the only one celebrated in history. We present more recent African American classical composers in celebration of the Texas roots of Juneteenth with Jessie Montgomery's "Strum" among others.

Venue TBA
$25/$10 student
